

Tayyibah Arif

Tayyibah is a corporate solicitor at one of the leading international law firms in London. She specialises in providing advice to private equity clients investing in portfolio companies and has developed communication, team working, strategic thinking and analytical skills as part of her job. She has previously worked as an LSE Student Tutor at a local Secondary School and as a part-time tutor for Explore Learning and is passionate about providing our children with the right skills for life through creative and interactive learning in a safe environment. She is originally from Pakistan and has recently moved to Southwark and became a governor to contribute to the local community. She uses her skills and passion to make a positive contribution to the governing body.